

Collaboration between Toolbox for Mars and Team Volta due to EmpredeBelux programme

Last February took place the second meeting of Spanish Entrepreneurs in Belgium, an opportunity for future and consolidated entrepreneurs to have an occasion to exchange ideas and experiences and explore potential partnerships. We are gratified to know that these meetings may become a meeting point to foster cooperation and social responsibility.

That day Jessica Verdi from Toolbox for Mars and Benji Urena from Team Volta met. Toolbox for Mars is a company specialized in commercializing products and services geared towards a healthier and more sustainable life. On the other hand, Team Volta is an association that offers free collective training in public spaces and is a great contributor to the environment. Both projects are very committed to health and sustainability.

Benji and Jessica realized that they shared values and set their hands to start a collaborative project. Toolbox for Mars is the sponsor of Team Volta and the past 2th of June took place the first Plogging – Meditation together. Both teams and sympathizers came together to offer a service to the community by picking up cigarette butts and trash from the streets of Woluwe Saint Pierre neighbourhood.
